THE MICHIGAN ADOPTION RESOURCE EXCHANGE: Helping to Bring Children and Families Together

The Michigan Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) is a statewide information and referral service for families interested in adopting children from foster care, and for adoption workers looking for homes for these children. The MARE website provides a listing of children waiting to be adopted in Michigan and of Michigan families interested in adopting children with special needs. To view children waiting to be adopted in Michigan, please visit Mare.org > For Families > View Waiting Children.

MARE is not a placement service - we do not provide care for children waiting to be adopted and do not complete family homestudies or foster care licenses. Instead, MARE refers prospective parents to agencies and answers questions they might have about adoption and children with “special needs.” MARE also provides technical assistance to adoption workers and agencies.

We encourage families who are interested in adoption from foster care to be willing to consider at least two of the following characteristics:

- Children over the age of 5; Caucasian children over the age of 9
- Children who are part of a sibling group and must be placed in the same home
- Children of a minority background
- Children who have physical, emotional, developmental and/or learning needs

Families new to the MARE website should become registered users of the website in order to complete inquiries on children. Please view our handy Family User Guide to answer questions as you register, and if you need additional assistance, please don't hesitate to contact us.

WHO ARE THE CHILDREN?

Adopting a child from foster care is often referred to as “special needs” adoption. Common traits of children waiting to be adopted from foster care include:

- Children school aged and above.
- Children with emotional, mental, learning or physical impairments.
- Children of minority backgrounds.
- Children who are part of a sibling group who must be placed together.

Many of these children have had traumatic past experiences that may include physical, sexual or emotional abuse and/or severe neglect. Others may have been born drug or alcohol exposed.

Around 93 percent of children who are adopted from Michigan’s foster care system are adopted by their current foster family or a relative (someone with whom the child has an established relationship). The remaining children available for adoption, like those in this periodical and on the MARE website, don’t have an identified family to adopt them. Recruitment of a suitable adoptive family is, therefore, necessary. **Some of the children in this periodical have found permanency since their photos were taken.*

Typically, more than 98 percent of the children available for adoption without an identified adoptive family are over the age of 5. Typically, more than 75 percent of those children are between the ages of 11 and 18.

WHO CAN ADOPT A CHILD?

Many people may be surprised to learn that they do not have to be married in order to adopt a child from the foster care system. Potential adoptive parents do not have to own their own home or have a lot of money. They must have enough space in their home and adequate income to support a child. It is important to know that many children waiting to be adopted are eligible to receive adoption assistance, which is intended to assist adoptive families in meeting the children’s needs.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO ADOPT A CHILD FROM FOSTER CARE?

The only costs you should incur from adopting a child from Michigan's foster care system are court filing and birth certificate fees. Some agencies may charge a fee for the Adoptive Family Assessment (also known as a Home Study); however, once you adopt a child through Michigan's foster care system, that fee is reimbursed to you.

WHAT IS THE ADOPTION PROCESS?

Families must be approved through the Adoptive Family Assessment process before a child can be placed in their home for adoption. An Adoptive Family Assessment must be completed by a licensed adoption agency (which can be found in the back of this periodical and on Mare.org) and can take an average of six months to complete. The Adoptive Family Assessment includes, but is not limited to, the following components:

- Personal history.
- Health statements.
- Criminal background checks.
- Income statement.
- Personal references.

Once the Adoptive Family Assessment is complete, you may start submitting inquiries to MARE about children you may be interested in adopting. When you inquire about children through the MARE website, your information will be sent by MARE to the child's adoption worker for consideration. Your worker will also be notified that you have inquired about a specific child or children.

GET SUPPORT

Did you know that MARE has a Match Support Program?

Well into its fourth year, the Match Support Program is designed as a short-term (90-day) program to assist families with the transition of a new child into their home. At the time of printing, the program has helped more than 296 families find the resources, trainings and listening ears they needed to help with their transition.

The program has also helped families find medical providers and clothing banks and assisted in registering children for school. Match support has been an asset to families thus far, and one parent even said, "MARE Match was the best thing that ever happened with our adoption process!"

STANDING BY AND READY TO ASSIST YOU

MARE adoption navigators are experienced adoptive parents who offer guidance and personal knowledge to potential adoptive families. They have years of parenting experience, resource and service finding skills and knowledge of foster care and adoption procedures. You often will find navigators attending community coalition meetings – sitting on both parent and professional panels – staffing Meet & Greets and participating in other statewide adoption events. Our navigators love getting out of the office and meeting the families they work with!

Navigators are also a great resource for families who need help advocating for themselves with their agency and teaching families where to find resources around the state.

Families who contact MARE for information on adopting children through foster care are given the option to work with a navigator to help guide them through the process. The navigator program is a free service.

Call 800-589-6273 and ask to talk to a navigator or fill out a form at

I Rise

Choices that others made have me where I am today.
Memories bring me to my knees, but still I stand tall
Though not my doing, it is my path to walk.
Respect my past, hope for my future... see how I rise.

People looking from the outside may not understand
I may feel angry, I may not trust, but I will not break.
If you take a moment to listen you'll see
Hurts can be healed, trust can be built... come watch me rise.

Don't dismiss me or sweep my history under the rug,
It may have hurt, but it has made me wise.
My past is embedded in who I am
It's my strength, it's my fire... it fuels my rise
Placement is a big word for us, to you it's just a word.
It's time away from real life, but this life is mine.
It's my path changing every time I move
It's deeper than it looks... but I will rise.

Each of our stories have unique twists and turns
We handle them in our own ways, but we need support.
We look forward to our futures, to family, to love.
To shape our tomorrows... and together we will rise.

A PARENT SHARES THE BEAUTY OF ADOPTING OLDER YOUTH

Maris Wallag understands the reward of adopting older youth firsthand.

She and her husband adopted three older youth from foster care, and when talking about their experience, Wallag emphasizes the positives fellow adoptive parents can realize by adopting older youth.

“I always joke that you should adopt older kids because they sleep in,” Wallag says with wide, bright grin, “and there’s no knocking at your bedroom door because they’re scared.”

Early in their adoption process, the Wallags recognized the benefits of adopting older youth.

“I don’t think people understand that when you adopt an older child, you get to take him to the concerts you want to go to,” she says. “You listen to the music you want to listen to. No offense to KIDZ BOP.”

“We go the scary movies that we like. They do their own laundry. We get to go to their sporting events. We don’t change diapers; we don’t get up in the middle of the night. The kids know where the fridge is. There’s a lot of independence that our kids have, which frees up a lot of our time to do other family matters.”

Wallag likens adoption of older youth to marriage because the children select their parents for life.

“The beautiful thing about adopting an older child is this child is literally saying, ‘I want you to be my parents, I want you to raise me, I want you to share all these milestones.’ We have so many milestones yet to share.”

She looks forward to sharing such milestones as learning to drive, going to the prom and picking a college dorm room and moving into it. Wallag acknowledges the apprehension some adoptive parents might feel about adopting older youth, but she points out that parents can ease the transition into the home.

“You have to be open to it -- you can find this child and make that connection,” she says. “You’re always going to be getting to know them because even with your birth children, you’re always learning new things about them.”

ABOUT JESSICA STRACHAN: Former Foster Alumni

Jessica Strachan is a Detroit-based journalist and foster care advocate. She's a Michigan native who spent her teenage years in the system, eventually finding her forever family alongside her little brother: A couple originally from the south known as Auntie and Uncle Harlan.

Jessica entered care at age 13 and remained a ward of the state with her forever family, helping to secure vital resources, scholarship funds and independent living at a crucial time in her life.

With her new foster family by her side, Jessica became one of three percent of foster kids who graduate from college. She went on to earn her masters degree from the University of Michigan and now has more than a decade of experience in her dream career as an award-winning writer and photographer.

Jessica spends her free time traveling the world and has been to more than 25 countries. She held tight onto her dreams, from learning a second language to becoming published and creating a library to pass to her own kids one day.

She is now an advocate for foster families and the next generation of kids in Michigan. Her ultimate goal is to build her own family through foster care and adoption.

Jessica serves as a volunteer photographer for MARE with the Heart Gallery project, and dedicates her time to building up foster kids who need mentoring and to feel seen in their portraits. She has created a website designed to provide resources on foster care and adoption and features youth stories and her own personal journey. You can follow her work at www.fosteringsecondchances.com.

Jessica is currently in the process of becoming licensed as a foster parent herself in order to provide a loving home for foster youth of Michigan.

REQUESTING THE HEART GALLERY 2020

Want to help spread awareness for adoption through foster care in the state of Michigan?
Request the Heart Gallery display!

The Michigan Heart Gallery is a traveling photographic exhibit featuring photos of children in foster care who are waiting for their forever families through adoption. Reserving the Heart Gallery for your event is an easy way to advocate for Michigan's youth waiting to be adopted and the need for adoptive families.

The Michigan Heart Gallery travels throughout the state visiting museums, places of worship, community events and more! To reserve the Heart Gallery or receive MARE's assistance in planning a recruitment event, contact:

Reservations are taken on a first come, first serve basis. MARE will ship the display directly to you and provide a return shipping label. We ask that you please take the display to your local FedEx store the day after your event so we can ensure it will arrive at its next destination on time. The larger "main display" stands within a 20ft x 20ft footprint at 7.5ft tall. MARE also has 12 banner stands at 4ft x 7.5ft and are ideal for smaller spaces.

Due to the current pandemic we can also provide material for any virtual events such as our Heart Gallery video, etc.

Thank you for your interest in hosting the Michigan Heart Gallery!

STAY HOME, STAY SAFE, ADOPT!

Coronavirus has changed day-to-day life for everyone, but one thing it hasn't changed is the need for permanent families in children's lives. Yes, you can still adopt from foster care in Michigan! While some parts of the adoption process may be moving a bit more like a tortoise than a hare, things certainly haven't stopped. MARE recently sent a survey to all agencies to learn the creative ways they are still working with families during the "Stay Home, Stay Safe" order:

- Homestudy Process: Warm up the Zoom app on your phone or laptop! Many agencies are using video conferencing for orientations, interviews and even a first walk through of your home. We all know there is no shortage of paperwork for pre-adoptive families to complete, but luckily most of it can be sent and completed through mail. Training and background clearances are critical parts of the homestudy process - there are options for remote training and and agencies are still scheduling families for background clearances.
- Meet and Greet: MARE piloted our first virtual meet and greet in July and it was a success! While we look forward to seeing you all in person again, virtual meet and greets are going to remain an option during the pandemic and likely even beyond.
- Matching Process: If you're homestudy-ready and inquiring about youth on MARE, agencies are still doing their best to follow up. Families who may be a match for a child will review the Child Adoptive Assessment via email, and disclosure (or case conference) meetings are happening via video conference. Some families who have been matched even had their first visit with a child through video!

MARE staff is primarily working from home, rather than the main office, but we're ready to support and help families like yours through the process. Call us at 800-589-6273.
