The story of Undray, above, and how he was adopted is part of a special MARE video production making its debut at the 2015 Michigan Heart Gallery Grand Opening on Saturday, April 18. Before he was matched, Undray was among the teens on the MARE website who have waited the longest for a forever family.

Building an Adoption Toolkit

Gear up for success with these tips

1. A Safety Plan
   - A sense of safety is critical for family bonding, emotional growth and general well-being. Adoptive parents have an obligation to develop a thoughtful and thorough safety plan that can address any behaviors or situations that compromise the well-being of all family members, property and pets.

2. Community Resources
   - Parents who have identified resources in their community are often better prepared to reduce potential risks and get their children the help they need immediately. Some resources to consider are mental health providers, school and education advocates, Post Adoption Resource Centers (PARC), adoptive parent support groups and tutors.

3. An Open Heart
   - Open Heart Parenting is based on the belief that parents and children will experience more closeness and less conflict when everyone’s needs are respected and addressed. In this environment, children benefit emotionally, intellectually, and socially when allowed to express their feelings to an attentive parent, and the most effective discipline is based on mutual respect that maintains the sense of connection between parents and children. (openhartparenting.com)

4. Commitment
   - There may be no greater commitment than the one that a parent makes to their child(ren). Parenting with commitment goes beyond the obligation and expectation to care for, protect, and nurture. It holds parents responsible for teaching and modeling behaviors that demonstrate accountability, compassion, patience, respect, encouragement, support and love.

This program provides a listening ear, knowledgeable guidance and community connections to any member of an adoptive family. Our services are offered at no charge, through consultants located throughout the state. We are here to serve any adoptive family member who has adopted in Michigan.

What do we offer?

The Parent to Parent Program encourages and supports adoptive families whenever, however and wherever they need it. We do this in three ways:

- Matching your family to one of our trained adoptive parent consultants whose adoption experience and background may be most helpful to you
- Providing personal contact and support in whatever way and for however long you need it (phone, email, in person, etc.)
- Connecting your family to other adoptive families so that you can all support each other as you grow together.
