

TRANSRACIAL PARENTING LIVED EXPERIENCES

Panel & Training

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10TH
from 6:00 -7:30 PM on Zoom

This powerful, interactive session explores the realities of transracial parenting through honest conversation, reflection, and lived experience. Participants will gain insight into identity, culture, belonging, and the unique challenges children and families may face, while hearing directly from individuals with personal experience navigating transracial family dynamics. Together, we will discuss ways to strengthen connection, increase understanding, and support children with intention and compassion. Training certificates will be provided.

Panel Facilitator and Trainer:

Stacey Goodson, MS, works with Post Adoption Resource Center (PARC) Region 5 and provides training through her company, Amoyan Training and Consulting. She's the author of Triple Threat: Teenagers, Talking, and Trauma and has 15+ years of experience in child welfare and trauma-informed practice, along with 14+ years of lived experience as a foster and adoptive parent. Stacey offers engaging, practical trainings that combine professional knowledge, real-world perspective, and compassion for children, families, and professionals.
